THE GREEKS

Maintaining Their Positions in the Battle at Larissa.

King George Will Start for Larissa Next Monday—The Turkish Fleet Is Unfit for Active Operations—Nezores Is Still in the Hands of the Turks.

LONDON, April 23.—The war news received from the special correspondents of the London morning papers for publication Friday, is meager and somewhat conflicting. The only certainty seems to be that Tynavro has not yet fallen, but Nezores is in the hands of the Turks.

The Chronicle's Athens correspondent says that the Greeks have retreated from Mati.

According to the Times correspondent at Athens the result of the fighting, which was raging furiously at Mati Wednesday, would decide the fate of Larissa, and if the Turks capture Mati, Tynavro must fall.

A telegram from Larissa, dated 5 o'clock Thursday evening, says that 10,000 Turks are engaged, and that Crown Prince Constantine has arrived on the scene of action. The Greeks are maintaining their positions.

All the dispatches from Athens admit that the situation is extremely grave. Fighting appears to be going on along the whole frontier line. It is rumored there that the king will start for Larissa on Monday next.

The western division of the Greek fleet has sailed from Leucas for the coast of Epirus, with the design of fomenting a revolt among the Albanians. It is said that Hafe Pasha will resign the command of the Turkish fleet if it is ordered to leave the Dardanelles. He is said to have declared the vessels "quite unfit for active operations."

A dispatch to the Times from Canea says that fighting is going on almost daily in the vicinity of Canea, where there are 5,000 insurgents, including 500 cavalry, together with a considerable body of Greek troops and four heavy guns.

The governor expresses fear lest the insurgents may attack the town en masse. The Turks there have no field guns.

LARISSA, April 23.—The latest news from the district of Kurtisvali (probably identical with Gritzovali) is that the place has been recaptured by the Greeks.

LONDON, April 23.—A special dispatch from Athens says that offers of help are reaching the Greek government from all quarters and the military authorities expect to have 40,000 volunteers enrolled under the Greek flag before next week.

The Epirotes at Athens are preparing to leave that city in order to assist the Greeks in capturing Epirus as far as the Berlin treaty line.

The National League of Greece has advanced the passage money for 1,000 Garibaldians who are expected at the Piræus immediately. The Pan-Hellenic steamer Albanian is on her way to Rimini to embark 3,000 Italians, who, the Greek minister at Rome telegraphs, are ready to fight for Greece.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE GREEK ARMY, LARISSA, April 23.—The latest advices as to the situation at Damasi show that on Sunday the Turks made a sortie from the town and attacked the Greek position at Boughazi pass and Sideropolis.

After severe fighting the Greeks drove the Turks back across the frontier with a loss of five guns.

The Turks have descended from Milouna pass on Kutrivari. The result is not yet known here.

Four hundred members of the foreign legion, including 26 Englishmen, under Capt. Birch, arrived here on Tuesday. They were received with a great demonstration, which was repeated on their departure for the front in the evening. Intense enthusiasm was caused among the Greeks when the Englishmen sang the Greek national war songs.

The Greek Evzones and a mountain battery, having ascended the mountains east of the St. George monastery, were taken by the Turks on the flank. After a severe fight, lasting many hours, the Turks, who, on Monday had driven the Greeks from Mati and Ligaria, brought 281 Circassian cavalry from Ellassona. This was on Tuesday. The Circassians began to extend into the plain, but being raked by the Greek Col. Mastropas' battery and by the Evzones they were compelled to fall back on Ligaria with great loss.

A portion of the fleeing Turks have recrossed the Milouna pass toward Ellassona. The Greek infantry, extending in a semi-circle from Tynavro to Karavali, and supported by artillery, all well handled, after a hard day's fighting, drove back the Turks upon Ligaria. It is understood that the latter are retreating in force toward Ellassona.

LONDON, April 23.—A dispatch to the Daily Chronicle from Athens says that the Greeks have held their own positions and destroyed the Turkish cavalry at Mati. German officers were seen fighting with the Turks in German uniforms.

LONDON, April 23.—A special dispatch from Athens says that offers of help are reaching the Greek government from all quarters, and the military authorities expect to have 40,000 volunteers enrolled before the beginning of next week. The Epirotes at Athens are preparing to leave that city to assist the Greeks in capturing Epirus.

THREE MEN DEAD

And Two Dying as a Result of a Wreck on the Louisville and Nashville Road at Wilcox, Ala.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 23.—A special to the Republic from Montgomery, Ala., says:

Another disastrous wreck, caused evidently by the band of wreckers which has played havoc with the roads in this state, occurred Thursday morning. As a result three men are dead, two others are said to be dying and a number of others more or less seriously injured.

NEW ORLEANS

Has Two Thousand Men at Work on the Levee—The Last Grand Rally Before the Advancing Waters Made.

NEW ORLEANS, April 24.—The monster river stood still Thursday. Clouds gathered, but no rain fell. It was altogether a fine day for work and great work was done. There is need for it. New Orleans and her over-the-river protégé, Algiers, have several weak levees to look after. Just below in St. Bernard are two; just above, taking both sides of the river together, between here and Baton Rouge, are half a dozen. New Orleans has 2,000 men at work Friday morning and the other places have many more. Lumber in carloads and mud by the trainload are being used. It is one of the finest fights in history and only a few days more remain before the crisis will be reached.

As previously stated, the battle has had its lessons and a great deal has been learned about the way to obtain the most strength of levees, about revetments and about the importance of proper drainage for the embankments, a point which was heretofore almost entirely neglected. Now the state experiment station at Audubon Park announces a number of interesting tests in progress. Various kinds of earth are being submitted to outward pressure, as to its penetrability, and when the experiments are completed the scheme of levee building will be more exact.

NEW ORLEANS, April 24.—The river has been about stationary around 19 feet above low water. The line is being held all along the Louisiana front, below the Concordia parish breaks, although a number of dangerous spots are being sought for. The levee at Johnston, St. James parish, was the leading menace Friday night, but the citizens and the Texas & Pacific are fighting for it and will succeed in averting disaster. The principal sensation Friday was the attempt to create a break at Bonnet-carre, where several big crevasses have taken place in the last quarter of a century. It happened about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. A party was found acting suspiciously, and, when caught, was fired at by the guards. He escaped into the woods, leaving behind two dynamite bombs. Great excitement prevails there.

W. J. DEBOE,

A Hunter Man, Receives the Nomination For United States Senator at the Republican Caucus.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 24.—The adjourned republican joint legislative caucuses met Friday night at 8 o'clock to again attempt the nomination of Dr. Hunter's successor. The presence of Baird, gold democrat, was taken to mean a possible attempt on the part of the Deboe-Hunter men to repeal the resolution, making 39 republican votes necessary to a nomination. The only absentees were Messrs. Deboe and Bennett, the candidates paired.

The caucus lasted until after midnight and 28 ballots were taken, when W. J. Deboe received the nomination. The balloting went on by the hour without material change. Before the twentieth ballot the Deboe side offered a resolution that beginning with the twenty-fifth ballot the hindmost man on each succeeding ballot be dropped. The anti-Deboe side agreed to this.

After midnight the nominee was brought in and made a stirring speech of thanks. Holt and Lewis also came in and made speeches. Hunter men, whose man had been nominated only with the wish and consent of their bitterest enemies, didn't look very happy over it, but no republican was found Friday night who would say he would not vote for the nominee Saturday.

W. J. Deboe, the nominee, is about 50 years old, a native of Crittenden county, where he was a practicing county physician for a number of years. His first political prominence was his election to the state senate four years ago. There is every reason to believe he will be elected Saturday.

ST. LOUIS MOTORMAN

Shot by Ira Stansbury for Bumping His Buggy Off the Car Track.

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—James S. Thorp, motorman, was shot by Ira Stansbury in front of the city hall Friday. Stansbury was in a buggy, which he was driving on the track. Thorp ran an electric car up behind the buggy and sounded the gong for Stansbury to get off the track. Stansbury was driving fast and refused to turn out. Thorp ran his car up to the buggy and bumped it off the track. Stansbury dispassionately stopped his horse, lowered the hood of his buggy, produced a revolver from under the seat and carefully shot the motorman through the thigh. When arrested by an astonished policeman Stansbury was perfectly calm. He said he had as much right on the street as a car and that no motorman had any franchise to run him down.

Stansbury is 77 years old and has been a resident of St. Louis for 60 years. Twenty years ago he was proprietor of the largest saddlery and harness establishment in the city.

Tobacco Warehouse Burned.

RIPLEY, O., April 24.—The large brewery, one mile north of this place, belonging to the T. Reinert estate was totally destroyed by fire. Of late years it has been occupied as a tobacco warehouse. Building and contents were fully insured.

The Deadlock in Florida.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 24.—Balloting for U. S. senator Friday resulted as follows: For Call, 33; Chibley, 24; Raney, 17; Hoeker, 11; Burford, 5; Darby, 1; Broome, 1; Wolff, 1; total, 93. Chibley gained two and Call one over the last ballot.

Jury Couldn't Agree.

LEBANON, Ind., April 24.—After 24 hours' deliberation, the jury in the Mt. Tabor church case failed to agree, and at 6 o'clock Friday evening was brought into court and discharged. The final vote stood 9 to 3 in favor of the defense, or "Means" party.

ARRANGEMENTS

For Receiving and Escorting the President in New York.

The Honor of Acting as Military Escort Tendered to Cavalry Squadron A—McKinley Will Receive the Alumni of the Signi Alpha Epsilon Society.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Final arrangements for receiving and escorting President McKinley from the ferry to the Windsor hotel, where he will be quartered during the Grand day ceremonies, were completed Sunday night by Gen. Daniel Butterfield. Gen. Butterfield telegraphed to Washington to learn the president's wishes in the matter and received a reply that everything should be left to Gen. Butterfield. The honor of acting as military escort to the president was then tendered to cavalry squadron A, composed of about 250 men.

President McKinley will receive the New York Alumni association of the Signi Alpha Epsilon fraternity, of which he is a member, Monday evening at the Windsor hotel. After the reception the association will adjourn to the Waldorf, where the annual banquet will be held. It is expected that President McKinley and ex-Secretary Carlisle, who is also a member of the society, will be present at the banquet.

A FORECAST

Of the Business to Be Transacted in Congress This Week.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—There will not be a quorum in the senate during the present week owing to the absence of a large number of senators in New York, in attendance upon the ceremonies over Gen. Grant's tomb. Consequently business of importance will be transacted. Probably a majority of the senators desire to adjourn from Monday until Thursday and from Thursday again until Monday, without transacting any business of general moment, and this programme is likely to be followed. If the wish of the republican members of the finance committee is acceded to the tariff bill will be reported Thursday, but it is most probable that this will be postponed until next week. The work of preparing for the reorganization of the senate committees will proceed informally.

Under the arrangement made on Friday the house will transact no business this week. The house met formally Monday and adjourned until Thursday, when an adjournment will be taken until Monday.

NO NEW BREAKS.

River Still Beating Against its Banks With Awful Fury.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 26.—No new crevasses appeared in the levees Friday, but the current of the river is still beating against the southern embankments with a fury that causes the gravest apprehension. The break at Delta has inundated 75,000 acres of the finest plantation in southern Louisiana, and the water continues to pour through the opening and is rapidly spreading over a greater area. Reports from Greenville are not encouraging.

While the water is slowly receding in the overflowed district of the Yazoo delta, yet it is almost certain that the planting of this year's crop will be 30 days late.

The Negro laborers are in a fearful state of destitution throughout the delta, although the government relief work is being carried on energetically. The situation north of Memphis and in Arkansas, however, has greatly increased.

At Vicksburg and New Orleans there are no changes, the river remaining stationary. All other points from which bulletins are issued a decline is reported varying from one-tenth to eight-tenths of a foot.

VIARS AND LEWIS

To Hang in June, and Slaughter Will Wear Stripes for Life.

MONTGOMERY, W. Va., April 26.—The criminal court at Payetteville has sentenced Albert Viars and Clark Lewis to be hanged June 15. Wilbur Slaughter turned state's evidence and was given a life sentence. Virgie Gibson was found guilty of murder in the second degree, and will get a life sentence.

When sentence was pronounced Clark Lewis broke down and sobbed like a child. He says he choked Gibson into unconsciousness in the house and he was then taken to the old mine and Viars finished the job. Gibson's little girl was lying across the foot of the bed asleep while her father was being murdered, and was told by her mother next morning that her father had run away. Viars and Slaughter received the news of their sentence very coolly and seemed indifferent as to their fate.

Wiley Lewis and Hudson have not yet been sentenced.

Prof. Dennison Attempts Suicide.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Prof. J. D. Dennison, aged 73 years, attempted to commit suicide on Saturday at his home in Haledon, N. J. He had grown helpless and sought to relieve his wife of the burden of his support. For 18 years Prof. Dennison was principal of the Haledon school, holding the position until four years ago, when it was decided to place a younger man in charge of the institution. Prof. Dennison never recovered from the blow of his dismissal.

Wheat Sells at $1.03.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 26.—Wheat again broke the record Friday when No. 2 red winter wheat sold at $1.03 per bushel. This is the highest price reached since 1890. One car was sold at that figure by C. J. Taylor & Co. to the Eggers Milling Co. The news of the sale spread quickly on "change" and helped materially to bolster the market in futures.

A Miss Elected President of the Board.
GALION, O., April 26.—Miss Jessie Young, a member of the board of education, was elected president of the board for the ensuing year.

BOMBARDMENT

Of Santorinaria by the Greeks Causes Great Damage—All the Government and Private Buildings Are Destroyed.

CONFU, April 24.—The western Greek squadron is bombarding Santorinaria and doing great damage to the town. All the government and private buildings have been destroyed with the exception of the Austrian embassy. All the stores and merchandise on the quays have been burned. Fifty refugees who had embarked on ships have been landed here.

NEW YORK, April 24.—A dispatch to the Journal from Constantinople says: There was a rumor Friday night that the sultan will refuse the demands of Bulgaria for five additional Berats or bishoprics. Such a refusal will surely result in a war with Bulgaria.

It is asserted, however, that the sultan would never have refused such a request from Bulgaria, unsupported by some power, in the face of recent reverses on the Greek frontier. The Bohemian government is preparing for war by announcing the issue of bills to the amount of 8,570,000 francs for an extraordinary war credit.

LONDON, April 24.—A dispatch to the Times from Constantinople says that while Osman Pasha will take supreme command of all the Turkish armies engaged against Greece, Elthem Pasha will remain in active command of the eastern army with headquarters at Macedonia.

The correspondents of the Daily News at Constantinople say:

"It is reported that all telegraphic communication with Constantinople is now cut off except by way of Gessia. I am assured that Izzet Bey has been received again into the favor of the sultan."

The Athens correspondent of the London Daily Mail says it is reported that the Greek army in Epirus has left a contingent to attack Pentepiradia, while the main body has proceeded to Plakka, where fighting is in progress.

The Times correspondent at Canea says Friday the insurgents are attacking Fort Izzidin, which is occupied by the international troops in addition to the Turkish garrison.

Three warships have left Sula and anchored opposite the fort. The admirals have gone to reconnoitre in a torpedo boat. He says that Col. Vassos has written to the admirals to ask whether the powers are in alliance with Turkey. The object of this inquiry is obvious.

The Athens correspondent of the London Times says Saturday: Those in authority here regard the situation as highly critical, despite the favorable news from Epirus. Fighting continues at Mati. The Crown Prince Constantine has ordered his troops to maintain a strictly defensive attitude. A portion of the western squadron has been detached to bombard the fortress Parga, opposite Pax Island.

A dispatch to the Times from Milouna Pass dated Friday, says:

"Edhem Pasha continues to pursue a cautious policy. His plan seems to be to capture in succession a number of small positions held by the Greeks, but to avoid a general engagement. The Turks are making a good military road through the pass. The cannonade continues from the Turks, who are advancing on the left wing; but in the direction of Tynavro matters are quiet. The Turks having taken and occupied the town. Large reinforcements are arriving and the result of the war is beyond doubt. The Turks treat their prisoners with humanity and kindness."

The Athens correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle says that the Crown Prince Constantine has wired to King George as follows:

"The Turks are quiet to-day, owing to our success yesterday (Thursday). We have destroyed the Turkish battery at Ligaria. The Turks have retired from Nezores and Iliassani. The action of our fleet at Katerina was excellent. I was in the first line of fire yesterday."

The Chronicle's correspondent says: "The Turks are greatly dismayed by the destruction of their stores at Katerina and at Litochorion. Commodore Sachtouris destroyed the stores from the coast to the foot of Mount Olympus. Nothing remains, therefore, for Edhem Pasha to carry away but hunger. The coast road being barred, the only remaining road from Salonia to the Verria road, eight days from Ellassona."

"The reports of the injury to the railway line by the blowing up of bridges and a tunnel are confirmed. Financially, everything is going well and the value of paper money has risen. It is reported here (Athens) that the Turkish troops will be withdrawn from Crete. Private advices from Volo say that all the villages between Katerina and Veria have risen."

"Among the wounded who have arrived here are several who state that a number of the Greeks wounded at Gritzovali and unable to follow the Greek retreat, were shut up in a small church by the Turks, who set fire to the building and burned them to death."

ATHENS, April 24.—It has been decided to call out several of the landwehr, or militia.

In Greece all able-bodied males, from 21 years of age and upward, are liable to be called upon for military service. The total service is for 19 years, of which two years, with considerable terms of leaves of absence, must be passed with the colors, eight and seven years are then passed in reserve, and the remainder of the total of 19 years is passed in the militia, or landwehr.

Greeks En Route for Greece.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., April 24.—Nine native Greeks passed through this city en route from Minneapolis to New York City on their way home to take part in the war against the Turks. A party of 50 passed through from Chicago Friday.

END IN SIGHT.

The Greeks' Defeat at Larissa Was a Crushing Blow.

It Is Reluctantly Believed in Athens That the Greeks' Retreat From Larissa Was Somewhat Disorderly—Greece Will Persevere in the Struggle.

LONDON, April 26.—What seems likely to be the last week of the war is entered upon Sunday. It is difficult from the tangle of conflicting telegrams to understand the exact position of affairs.

Following the Greek defeat at Larissa, London opinion Sunday was almost unanimous that the end is in sight, and this view is probably shared by the powers, as they are already moving to intervene.

It is believed that intervention will first take the form of a suggestion of armistice, to which the combatants would not doubt agree. Since Saturday afternoon the British foreign office has been in close communication with the other members of the European concert, Great Britain suggesting that the time has now arrived for them to act. The French, German and Italian governments have already responded, offering to agree, though the German government adds as a condition that it will be necessary to enact a pledge from Greece to obey the mandate of Europe when this mandate is again given.

British foreign office believes that Greece will give this pledge as the disasters which have overtaken her have demonstrated that Turkey still possesses a formidable fighting machine at both places, they could not transport the guns to Pharsala.

It is reluctantly believed by some in Athenian circles that the retreat was somewhat disorderly, and that some of the guns were abandoned with but feeble defense. It seems probable, however, that in the main the retreat was in good order.

Sunday morning the word went forth here that the government will persevere in the struggle with greater determination. The report, however, has not served to allay the growing irritation at the belief that, even if Greece could not hold her own, the non-offensive policy manifested in the orders of the crown prince not to attack, was idiotic and un-Grecian. The retreat to Pharsala is considered a poor response to the fiery speeches of the Crown Prince Constantine to his troops.

Naturally all sorts of reasons are advanced to explain why the Greeks retreated, the more candid admitting that the Turks were too strong. It is also pointed out that the Turkish cavalry did much to turn the scale in favor of Edhem Pasha.

The Greek fleet is also the subject of many curious reports, one of which asserts that the eastern squadron has bombarded Dedeagach. It is known that the Turks yesterday ordered that all the lanterns in the lighthouses on the Gulf of Salonica should remain unlighted. Five ironclads and four torpedo boats are operating along the coast between Platamon and Katerina. The British and French subjects residing at Volo have addressed their respective envoys here, begging for the dispatch of warships to Volo to protect them. The envoys have wired to their governments and to the admirals at Canea, but at Athens it is considered unnecessary to comply with the request, as an attack upon Volo is no part of the Turkish programme.

The triumph of the Turkish arms has caused the liveliest satisfaction here. The following telegram from Edhem Pasha is posted everywhere: "Larissa was occupied Sunday by the cavalry of the imperial army. The Hellenic troops fled in disorder, abandoning a large quantity of arms and munition."

This has been put up as a bulletin in many places, while the people are also reading Edhem Pasha's dispatch announcing his possession of a strategic position in front of Tynavro, which is as follows:

"The hill of Lesdaki, the most important dominant point to the north of Larissa, was taken by the Ottoman troops on Friday. Hamid Pasha's division having left Koskesi (Karya), effected a juncture with the other imperial troops at Miloorin. The town of Tynavro, which is situated two hours from Larissa, was occupied Sunday by the Ellassona army corps."

The Ottoman troops continue to advance toward the plain of Larissa.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The Turkish legation received the following dispatch from Constantinople:

"The imperial troops took in Tynavro a great quantity of rifles and ammunition for cannon and rifles, also provisions. The Greek soldiers who were taken prisoners were sent to Ellassona. The village has been surrounded by a military cordon. Ottoman patriots make continual rounds and efficient measures have been taken to prevent any depredations. The wise and proper behavior of our troops has been the subject of admiration of the foreigners who are on the spot."

ROME, April 26.—L'Opinione semi-officially says Monday morning: The hour is grave for Greece. Her abandonment of Larissa is more than a defeat. It is a demonstration of impotence, and its consequences are incalculable unless she has the courage to negotiate and to withdraw her troops from Crete.

The Canadian Tariff.

LONDON, April 26.—The Times will say editorially Monday: "The presentation of the consideration of Canadian tariff is beyond doubt the most remarkable step yet made towards financial legislation in the British empire. We much regret to see the attitude Mr. Foster has taken towards it."

Turks Dynamite Churches.

LONDON, April 26.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Larissa says that the Turks have burned, after plundering, the villages of Ligaria, Karavali and Meralaria, destroying the churches with dynamite.

A Strong Point for the Winchester.

In time everything breaks or wears out. Oftentimes a break can be repaired if the proper means are at hand. One of the many great advantages of using a Winchester make of rifle or repeating shot gun is that, if any part of the gun is broken, it can be easily replaced at a trifling cost. All Winchester guns are made by a system of interchangeable parts so that a part will fit any Winchester gun of like model. This permits the owner of a Winchester to repair any part of the gun without the aid of a gun-maker. Parts can be obtained through any gun dealer in the country. This feature alone should recommend strongly any gun made by the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Ct. Send for their large illustrated catalogue free.

Scrofula Tumors

Broke Out and Caused Intense Suffering—Hood's Sarsaparilla Keeps the Blood Pure.

"Several years ago I had scrofula which appeared in tumors in different parts of my body. It took five weeks for them to develop so they could be lanced and I suffered intensely. Physicians failed to cure me. After three years of great suffering the trouble reached my throat and my tonsils were consumed. I read of cures of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla and procured six bottles. After taking a few bottles I felt better. I continued until I was eventually cured. I have never been troubled with scrofula since that time. Hood's Sarsaparilla keeps my blood pure in spring and fall." MRS. SARAH G. DALES, Rutland, Ill. Be sure to get Hood's because.

THE OLD SLATE.

I came upon it yesterday up in the garret old.
A homely object, yet to me 'tis worth its weight in gold;
Its frame a little set awry, its body cracked, you see—
But as I held it in my hands what scenes came back to me!
Upon its surface long ago I solved the problems dread
For masters who are sleeping now beneath the flowers dead;
And many a message here I wrote for only one to see—
The little lass who used to sit across the aisle from me.
I found initials in the frame by jack-knife lettered there,
They stand for one who was to me the fairest of the fair;
And every mark upon the slate that cruel time has spared
Recalls some lesson which in youth that fairest lassie shared.
Ah, here's the crack which long ago was made by Jerry Call
When to the floor my precious slate he purposely let fall.
We did not speak for near a week, his mischief caused me pain,
But when he drew me from the creek we friends became again.
How often o'er this ancient slate with many a scar and nick,
I wrestled with the mysteries of the old arithmetic;
How proud I used to hold it up whenever I was right,
But when I failed how glad was I to keep it out of sight!
What victories from my "Webster" on this old, old slate I won;
What little rhymes I used to write when other toils were done;
How in my seat behind the stove the muse I tried to woo,
And glibly wrote of "roses red" and violets soft and blue!"
I seem to see those little rhymes upon its surface now,
I seem to catch some cherished names breathed out with boyish vow;
And 'round me from the misty past where recollections meet.
I hear the merry patter of a score of youthful feet.
I see the stern old masters, kind for all their stately ways;
They brightened though sometimes they clouded o'er my boyhood days;
And, grateful, I would weave a wreath and place it where they lie
With folded hands to-day, beneath the gentle, starlit sky.
I hear the merry laughter of the girls we used to swing
Beneath the hoary beech that cast its shadow o'er the spring;
But from among them all there comes from out the far away
A sweet and loving face upon the olden slate to-day.
The pencil of my memory brings out every graceful line,
Until there stands before my gaze a figure half divine;
And neither sponge nor moistened hand, with mischief all elate,
Can rub a single lineament from off my treasured slate.
The spiders shall not spin again their filmy silver thrall
Across the old slate resting long against the garret wall;
I'll set it in the sunshine like a queen in vestments fine,
For it whispers of a boyhood which to-day seems half divine.

THOSE MCCARTHY BOYS.

BY GEORGE ADE.

Mrs. Skinner's brother James was late at dinner time. The others were at the table when he came. His sister rebuked him mildly and said it wasn't her fault if the soup was cold. He replied with great enthusiasm that the soup was "just right," and, to prove that he meant it, he consumed his entire portion. Then he leaned back and looked inquiringly at his nephew Willie, who had been scolded twice already for whistling at the table.
Uncle Jim winked and little Willie began to snicker.
Willie—I did.
Uncle Jim—Did you?
Willie—Yes; and you ought to have heard Ed McCarthy laugh.
Uncle Jim—What did the teacher do?
Willie—Oh, she didn't do much. It made her kind o' mad, I guess. She said: "I'll declare, Willie Skinner, you're one of the worst boys in the school."
Mrs. Skinner—What's this all about?
Willie—Aw, it ain't much. Uncle Jim taught me to speak a piece that he used to speak when he was a kid.
Mrs. Skinner—When he was a boy.
Uncle Jim—It's a good piece, isn't it, Bill?
Mrs. Skinner—James, it sounds awful to call a little boy by such a name as that. What was it you spoke, Willie?
Willie—Aw, it was just a piece.
Uncle Jim—You must remember it. It's about the captain's daughter. "We were crowded in the cabin," and so on.
Mrs. Skinner—Yes, of course. Did you teach it to Willie?
Uncle Jim—You ought to hear him. Go on and speak it for them, Bill.
Willie—Aw, I don't want to now.
Uncle Jim—Go on. I'll bet your father wants to hear it; don't you, Tom?
Mr. Skinner (taking a sudden interest)—Yes, of course. What is it?
Uncle Jim—I knew he wanted to hear it. Your mother will like it, too.
Ethel—I guess he's forgotten it.
Willie—Aw, forget it! I know it easy. It's just:
"We were crowded in the cabin,
Not a soul had dared to sleep;
It was midnight on the waters
And the storm was on the deep."
"Tis a fearful thing in winter
To be shattered by the blast
And to hear the rattling trumpet thunder:
"Cut away the mast!"
"And as thus we sat in silence,
Each one busy with his prayer,
"We are lost!" the captain shouted,
As he staggered down the stair.
"But his little daughter jolled him,
As she took his icy mitt.
"Ain't you afraid?" the captain cried,
And she boldly answered: "Nitt!"
"So we—"
Mrs. Skinner—Willie Skinner! Stop that this minute! Well, Thomas, I think that you, at least, ought not to laugh at anything of that kind. He's bad enough without being encouraged. (To Willie) Did you get up in school to-day and recite that piece?
Willie (half-frightened, but also emboldened by Uncle Jim's winks)—W-y, yes. Ain't it all right?

Mrs. Skinner—Willie Skinner, you're getting too old to play innocent. You know that wasn't in the piece.
Willie—Uncle Jim said it was.
Mrs. Skinner—Well, it seems to me your Uncle Jim is all the time trying to get you into trouble. I should think you'd find him out after awhile.
Uncle Jim—Why, there's nothing bad in what he said. It was just a little variation on the old verse.
Mr. Skinner (trying to keep a straight face)—What did your teacher say, Willie?
Willie (encouraged by his father's mirth)—Oh, gee! She was hot under the collar!
Mrs. Skinner—Willie Skinner, where do you learn such language?
Uncle Jim—What did she do?
Willie—Aw, she just stopped me and made me go back to my seat, an' said next time she'd send me home.
Mrs. Skinner—If I'd been your teacher I'd have whipped you good.
Willie—Ho! Ho! Ho! That just shows all what you know. Teacher can't whip kids any more. Any teacher that whips a kid gets fired—that's what Ed McCarthy says.
Mrs. Skinner—Well, Ed McCarthy needs a whipping if any boy ever did.
Mr. Skinner—It's a good thing for you that you haven't got my old teacher. If you tried one of those funny recitations on him he would have tanned your jacket.
Willie—Huh! I'd like to see some teacher lick me!
Mrs. Skinner—I wish sometimes that teachers could inflict punishment. I know if I was a teacher I'd whip those McCarthy boys if I lost my job the next day.
Ethel—When we're bad in our room the teacher sends us home.
Mrs. Skinner—That must be terrible punishment for some children.
Uncle Jim—I'll bet Bill would hate to be sent home one of these pleasant afternoons.
Willie—Aw, I wouldn't care.
Uncle Jim—Would you come right home?
Willie—Aw-w-w! One day way last summer Ed McCarthy kep' on throwin' paper wads so the teacher would send him out, 'cuz he wanted to see a ball game, an' I guess she was on to him. For she didn't send him home at all. She put him in the corner and made him stay after school, an' then all us kids waited to holler at him when he came out, an' he was so mad he run after Bob Ellsworth an' chugged him right in the stomach an'—
Mrs. Skinner—Willie, you'd better eat your dinner. You can finish that some other time.
Uncle Jim—Who is your teacher now?
Willie—Aw, it's ol' Miss Sanders.
Mrs. Skinner—Willie! Don't let me hear you speak in that manner of your teacher again. Do you hear?
Willie—I guess if you had to go to school to her every day you wouldn't be so stuck up on her.
Mrs. Skinner—Never mind talking back. If you have anything to say about her, call her Miss Sanders.
Uncle Jim—Do you love your teacher?
Willie—Aw, keep still.
Uncle Jim—Why, every little boy ought to love his teacher. Ethel loves her teacher, don't you, Ethel?
Ethel—I liked her the first day.
Willie—Oh, gee! You can do anything you want to the first day. We thought Miss Sanders was a dandy when she first came, but she's got so cross now us kids can't do a thing.
Mrs. Skinner—No wonder. You boys would spoil the temper of a saint. It's bad enough to take care of one. I don't know what I'd do if I had 20 on my hands.
Uncle Jim—You'd do what Miss Sanders does. You'd put up with them as long as you could and then send them home.
Mrs. Skinner—Well, I'd get even with those McCarthy boys. I'm sure Willie would never have got to reading those cowboy stories if it hadn't been for them.
Uncle Jim—Probably Mrs. McCarthy thinks it was Willie that led her boys astray.
Mrs. Skinner—Indeed! I don't see what reason she has to think anything like that. Willie behaves himself very well when he keeps away from those boys. They are always getting him into some trouble.
Mr. Skinner—I'm afraid they don't have to pull at him very hard.—Chicago Record.
Making Railroads Smoother.
The fact that within the past 15 years two-thirds of the unevenness in railroad tracks has been done away with on certain lines was discussed at a recent meeting of the New York Academy of Sciences. The improvement has been brought about principally through new designs and methods of manufacture of rails. A "track-indicator" car, traveling 20 or 30 miles an hour, sums up the inequalities, the "ups and downs," in the rails for each mile traversed. Formerly the "total inequality" per mile amounted to six or seven feet, even for the best roads; now it has been reduced to only 18 or 20 inches, and this remnant is said to be due to dents in the rails. It was pointed out that the improvement, which may be carried farther, brings with it heavier locomotives and cars, longer trains and higher speed.—Youth's Companion.
Had Her Fixed.
Dobkins—You don't seem to be in any hurry about going home to-night, old boy.
Fogg—No; the fact is I shall find my wife in angelic temper, no matter how late it is. She was going to a fortune teller this afternoon.
"Yes?"
"Don't you see? I went there before and gave the fortune-teller a fiver. Of course Mrs. F. will ask about me, and of course I shall get my five dollars worth. See?"—Boston Transcript.

TENNESSEE CENTENNIAL

The Great Exposition Will Open Its Gates May 1.

A Scene of Splendor Whose Completeness Has Never Been Rivalled—General Reduction in Railroad Rates.

[Special Nashville (Tenn.) Letter.]

The Tennessee centennial at Nashville, considered as a spectacular effect, has one marked superiority to the late Columbian exposition at Chicago. In the white city there was no sense of depth. It was all foreground. In whatever direction one looked there was nothing whatever but lath and plaster, gilt and tinsel. Nowhere could one look out beyond the temporary splendor of the passing hour and rest one's imagination with a glimpse of the permanent and the historic. Now at Nashville things are different. Standing on the "Rialto" here and facing eastward one beholds a great white statue of Athena, beyond her the replica of the Parthenon, and beyond that and round about white arches, glittering domes, reaches of pale green waters, deep green stretches of lawn that have golden tones in the sunshine, brightness, lightness, long perspectives of white wall, shadowy darkness in arch after arch, a world of gleam and glitter, a fascinating, insubstantiality that has sprung suddenly out of the earth, and shall return whence it was dug. But this is not all. While standing on the Rialto wheel about and face eastward. The direction of the bridge is continued in a broad avenue that falls away straight in front of you among shelving lawns and scattered trees. It curves to the left and disappears. The eye, however, still ranges on. Bright sunshine and blue sky overhang a wide valley, and beyond the valley there are many houses. Among them low-lying clouds of smoke blend hazily with the blue of distance and billow upward along a ridge crowded with buildings. Here and there a tower shoots high above the haze. A spire top catches the sunlight and glitters like a jewel. Straight in front of you, at the very center of the view, crowning and dominating the whole vista, veiled a little by gray smoke, softened by the blue of the horizon and backgrounded by blue of heaven, there is uplifted against the clouds the historic state house of Tennessee.

The scenic value of this imaginative undertone, so to speak, which is possessed by the Nashville exposition, cannot be overestimated. So speaks Nathaniel Stephenson, of the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, who visited the exposition grounds last week. In the course of a most brilliant piece of word painting he said:
"And here in the midst of the battlefields, where Tennessee made such a valiant attempt to break from the strong bond of the national union, she is now celebrating her original entry into that estate. A new day is dawning, not only literally as the visions of the night fade away, while the shadows begin to lift, but figuratively, in the choice of the event to which this southern state asks all the world to do honor. If the darkness in the shadow of the Parthenon has its ghosts of war and ruin, the brightness that is succeeding it brings forth the white statue of Athens, and thus
"The old order changes, giving place to new,
And God fulfills Himself in many ways."
"But now the darkness of the night has changed imperceptibly to an altogether different one, the darkness of the dawn. You have not yet become aware of any increase of light. What you have realized is a vague, uneasy feeling, as if things fixed and immovable were slowly drawing near you. Large, dark shapes of buildings are stealing gradually into the range of vision. Great bulks of blackness take on form and distinctness and resolve themselves into towers, domes, porticoes. Bit by bit the very air itself is playing the same strange trick. The starshine is falling steadily nearer to the earth. A blue, never seen at any other hour of the 24 glimmers downward from the descending stars and makes the whole atmosphere one endless starry shimmer. This is neither night nor morning, but the most mysterious of all the hours, the hour before the dawn, when the ordinary conditions of life do not exist. You feel that you are no longer upon earth, but wandering about the streets of some dream city, tenanted by you known not what and located in some far place unexplored by man.
"The buildings loom vaster and vaster as the blue shimmer grows steadily deeper. The dome of the Agricultural building is crowned by the stars themselves. The tower of the auditorium springs away into the very heart of heaven. The pillars of the Parthenon have the height of mountains. The statue of Athena is some immeasurably vast creature which is not to be approached.
"And all these monsters of the dawn have the strange effect of being asleep. They are buildings no longer, they are living creatures wrapped in dead slumber, gazing eastward with sightless eyes, that will be awakened by the dawn. Perhaps it is the continuous though imperceptible changing of the degree of distinctness in their details, due to the steadily growing light in the heavens, that produces this uncanny effect of being alive. But however produced, it is there. So real is it that one catches one's self treading lightly for fear of waking these enormous creatures that are all about one."

In concluding his letter Mr. Stephenson says: "The men who conceived this building must have had qualities which it perpetuates, sweetness, nobility, loftiness, calmness, strength. There was Tennyson's ideal of "That gentleness
That when it weds with Manhood makes a man."
"And looking at all this, at what the Parthenon signifies as well as what it embodies, captivated by the matchless serenity of its charm, realizing its contrast to the Nineteenth century, one asks again: "To what result is all this paganant of American material progress going forward?"

"And one turns hastily away lest one look too long upon the unattainable and lose heart and despair of his generation."

The great Remenyi apparently thinks in the same lines as Mr. Stephenson. They are both painters, artists of high renown, only one paints in music and the other in words. Both are poets, one with concord of sweet sounds, and the other with the rhythm of words. Remenyi says, as he stands tremblingly before the replica of the Parthenon: "Whose idea was this?" and when told that the idea originated with Maj. E. C. Lewis, the director-general, he said: "Where is he?"

The women who have made the woman's department an accomplished fact deserve more than passing mention. They have labored like heroes for nearly two years, and have spared neither time, money or exertion, to make their work a success of international character. The president of the woman's board is Mrs. Van Leer Kirkman, a lady especially gifted for the office. Mrs. J. N. Brooks is chairman of the sales department, Mrs. James P. Drouillard is vice president of the board, Miss Ada Scott Rice is secretary, and Mrs. M. B. Pilcher is chairman of space and classification. The architect of the Woman's building is Mrs. Sara Ward Conley, artist, architect and art critic, who is a native of Nashville. Mrs. G. H. Ratterman, chairman of the patents committee; Mrs. J. Hunter Orr, chairman decorative and applied art; Mrs. Ann Snyder, member of the general committee; Mrs. Paul McGuire, chairman of the ways and means committee. The women's congresses will be a feature of the centennial. The congresses, while general, are already classified, so that those interested in a particular subject can attend a course without consuming much time. In the departments there are education, music, art, home and literature. The lectures will be free and are intended to be philanthropic in character. They are also intended to serve another purpose. They will afford a fitting theater in which a thinking public can see and listen to the eminent women of the state. Of those there are scores who through patience, industry and ability have attained distinction and who are entitled to be known and loved by the nation as well as by the commonwealth in whose interest they have served so long and well.

The meeting of the railway passenger men at Nashville, the other day, was watched with great interest, for it was known that the object of the meeting was to decide upon the rates to the Tennessee Centennial exposition.

It was one of the most harmonious meetings ever held by that body, for they each knew that the motives that had prompted the enterprise were directed for the general good, and not for the benefit or aggrandizement of any individual or corporation.

The members of the passenger association, with the liberality that has always characterized their movements when the interests of the general public are concerned, determined to aid the Exposition association in their great work, and the consequence is that the rates are more advantageous, from every standpoint, than any that have ever been offered before. In fact, the fares have been placed at such a low figure that the Tennessee Centennial exposition, the national event of the current year, can be visited by everyone, for all obstacles have been removed.

It was agreed that the railway fares to the exposition should be placed on a sliding scale, and regulated by zones of from 25 to 50 miles each.

In the first zone of 50 miles the rate for the round trip will be 3 cents a mile.

From 51 to 100 miles, 2½ cents per mile.

From 101 to 150 miles, 2¼ cents per mile.

From 151 to 200 miles, 2¼ cents per mile, with 50 cents added.

From 201 to 275 miles, 2 cents per mile, with 50 cents added.

From 276 to 300 miles, 2 cents per mile, with 75 cents added.

From 301 to 350 miles, 2 cents per mile, with $1.50 added.

The fare, however, is in no instance to exceed 50 per cent. of the rate one way, on the zones from 201 to 350 miles.

For military companies and bands in uniform, of 25 or more, the rate will be two cents a mile, plus arbitrary, for the round trip. The same rate applies to schools, when accompanied by teachers. These rates limit the use of tickets to seven days after the date of issue.

A rate of one cent per mile, each way, short line mileage, plus arbitrary, for the Association of Confederate Veterans, whose annual reunion will be held in Nashville, June 22, 23 and 24, has been agreed upon.

The rates at hotels, restaurants and boarding houses are the lowest ever offered; and for meals, in numbers of instances, the price has been reduced from 20 to 25 per cent., and good living was never cheaper anywhere. The good people of Nashville have profited by the grave mistakes made at Atlanta and Chicago, and the prevailing sentiment is to keep the people here and induce them to come again, and not to permit them to go home dissatisfied and disgusted. There is no danger of anything running short; the supply whence resources are drawn is unlimited, and the adjoining territory is so rich in all the good things of earth that there will be no appreciable diminution in the stock on hand.

"Toothpicks prepared by nature are a product of Spain and Mexico. A comparatively small plant in Kew Gardens was estimated to have 17,600, and a large specimen in the same place could have had no fewer than 51,000.

UMBRELLAS AND CHARACTER.

Feminine Dispositions Revealed by Methods of Handling Them.

Two men who sat near the window of a downtown hotel a few days ago whiled away the time by watching the women go by and commenting on their umbrellas.

The storm had abated about an hour before and the sun had peered through a rift in the clouds, but for all that the first pedestrian went stalking past with her umbrella still held aloft.

"That woman," said one of the men, "is as patient as Job. She is not a student, absent-mindedly poring over book fore, but a housekeeper who is so taken up with thoughts of what she is going to get for supper that she doesn't know it has stopped raining. People who forget to lower their umbrellas when the sun begins to shine always are. That girl just behind her who has already taken time to fold her umbrella neatly, even though it is soaking wet, is going to be an old maid. She is narrow-minded, too. The next one has bound the folds down, but it looks uneven and bulging. That woman's children will always look downy, but she will nurse them successfully through innumerable attacks of croup and rash, and no family in town will have better things to eat."

"That short woman with her umbrella hopping this way and that will always be poor, because she will give away everything as soon as she gets it. Hers isn't altogether a commendable generosity, either, for it is caused more by lack of power to say 'no' than by an inherent desire to help her fellow-creatures. That dark woman with the tip of her umbrella trailing downward and backward at an angle of 45 degrees is malicious. I wouldn't trust her out of my sight. She'd say something mean about me the first chance she got. The one who carries her umbrella swung carelessly over her shoulder is a happy go-lucky individual who will always have a good time, not because she earns it, but because the world owes it to her, and she is going to have her rights."

"Do you see that woman who holds her umbrella at right angles to her body and sticks the sharp point ahead like a bayonet? She's one of the kind that sets the world afire. She has more energy in a minute than most people have in a year. A woman who swings her umbrella as she walks is prone to dilly-dally—she never knows her own mind, and no difference how well she may pretend to like a person, if another speaks ill of him in his absence she will generally side in with the calumniator. At any rate she will say nothing in his defense. She who trails her umbrella along in her wake is untidy and inclined toward low principles. The one that holds the stick upright and keeps tapping it on the pavement every little while is a good person to tie to; she has strength and honesty. There comes a woman carrying her umbrella under her arm. She's my wife and I won't say anything about her."

His companion looked at the little man's wrinkled, perplexed face and smiled. He fancied he knew what the verdict would have been had the woman only been somebody else.—Chicago Tribune.

GERMAN COURT BALLS.

The Waltz Is Still Danced at the Court of Stuttgart.

A few years ago the minuet and the gavotte were the special dances of the Berlin court, the kaiser himself having taken a special fancy to them. Somehow they did not find much favor in society, as young people prefer waltzing, and after all, the old-fashioned dances, like a good many old-fashioned habits, are all very well when the actors are dressed in the clothes of the period and resemble in mode of thought and carriage of body their great-grandparents. But few young people are like their forefathers. There was some reason for the introduction of a fanciful and picturesque dance at the grand festival of the imperial court, especially as very special rules prevailed there. It is well known that the late Kaiserin Augusta strongly objected to waltzing, and so does the court of Berlin. The consequence is that a kind of gallop was invented for Berlin—a two-timed movement, danced to the music of the waltz, but not at all resembling the old deutscher waltz. In Mecklenburg the waltz is never danced at all at court, the reason for this being, as it is said, that the Grand Duchess Marie does not like dancing. Moreover, almost everywhere at German courts the slow waltz was looked down upon as bad style. Good style depends upon the leaders of fashion, and so the slow waltz has been pronounced as the correct kind to be danced at the court of Stuttgart this winter. Both the queen and her stepdaughter are very fond of waltzing; her majesty has ordered that the waltz is to be danced slowly at the court balls now, as is the custom in Vienna.—London Telegraph.

Saved Again.

Mrs. Binley met her husband in the hall and gave him a good hug and kiss.
"O, George," she said, "I'm so glad you've come. Your slippers are by the fire, and I have a nice hot supper for you, and some of that quince marmalade you like so well. When you are away I'm so lonely I don't know what to do, and I thought I would ask you if—"

"Here," said Binley, hurriedly drawing from his pocket a $20 bill, "this is for the spring bouquet, and I'll have that set of diamond earrings sent up first thing in the morning. Don't say a word; you are perfectly welcome."

Later on Binley wiped the perspiration from his brow and muttered to himself:

"Got that visit from her mother headed off once more, but it comes high."—Detroit Free Press.

—Woman's Way.—"You women," said he, in the peculiarly exasperating way a man has of saying those two words, "you women buy bargain things because they are cheap." "We do not," said she. "We buy cheap things because they are bargains." The distinction was almost too subtle for the blundering masculine intellect, but it was there.—Indianapolis Journal.

—All She Wanted.—"My dear madam," said the professor of music, "your daughter has no sense of melody and no instinct for time. She couldn't play. And she has no voice, therefore she cannot expect to sing." "Well, of course," was the complacent reply, "those facts are drawbacks, but you can go on giving her lessons, just the same. I don't care about her performing or singing, as it would maybe take her away from home. All I want is for her to learn enough to make a comfortable living as a teacher."—Washington Star.

FASCINATIONS OF POISONS.

Men Who Make Cyanide of Potassium Are Strangely Tempted to Eat It.

There is a factory in London that makes only the deadliest poisons known to chemistry. Last year it produced 1,000 tons of cyanide of potassium. Five grains of this is sufficient to kill a man. In one room of the factory a visitor found tons of this deadly poison. It resembles very closely white crystallized sugar. The visitor remarked to the manager: "It looks good enough to eat."

"Ah," replied the manager, gravely, "that is just one of the dangers we have to guard against. For some inexplicable reason cyanide of potassium exercises a remarkable fascination over the men engaged in its manufacture. They are haunted by a constant and ever-recurring desire to eat it. They are perfectly alive to the fact, however, that to give way to the craving would mean instant death, and are consequently usually able to resist it. But not always. During the time I have been here three of our best and steadiest workmen have committed suicide in this strange manner, impelled thereto apparently by no cause save this mysterious, horrible longing. I myself have felt the same strange lust when I have been long exposed to the cyanide fumes, and have had to leave the works for a time in consequence. So well is this curious fact recognized that there are always two men at work together in this branch of our business, and a jar of ammonia, which, as you may know, is the antidote to the poison, is kept constantly near at hand."

Apart from this remarkable infatuation, which may be likened to the desire experienced by many people when standing on the brink of a precipice to throw themselves down, the manufacture of potassium cyanide is not particularly dangerous. Neither is it unhealthy. In fact, it is asserted that men have gone into the cyanide house ill and debilitated and in a short time have been restored to robust health.—N. Y. World.

Didn't Want to Be King.

The family life of the reigning household both at Athens and at Decleia is said to be exceptionally happy. A story is told, well illustrating the extent to which democratic feeling has taken hold even of the king's sons, to the effect that as the children were playing together one day they got to talking about what they were to do when they grew up, and the crown prince said to his brothers: "Oh, George, you be king when you are grown up; I don't want to." Neither did Prince George want to be king, and both decided that it was a disagreeable fate. Now one has been at the head of the Greek fleet, and the other has been sent in command of the land forces to Larissa. I recall well that one day when I was walking along the Odos Amalia, or Amalia street, with my wife we saw the crown prince and crown princess also out promenading on the street; and what a tall, fine-looking fellow he was!—blond, and very large, erect, and in uniform.—President William E. Waters, in Chautauquan.

The Cannon Car.

Military journals express interest in an invention by which it is proposed to arm a self-moving car, driven by a 16 horse-power engine, with two rapid-fire cannon, mounted on pivots so as to sweep in all directions. Having four broad-tired wheels, it is claimed that the car can run across a level country (barring fences, of course) at the rate of 45 miles an hour. Terrible pictures are drawn of the havoc that such cars could make on a battlefield. Only one man is needed to operate the car and its cannon, and he is protected by strong steel shields.—Youth's Companion.

When Smelts Were Burned.

Recent experiments by the curious at Portland, Ore., have revived recollections of a primitive light used in the early days of the settlements along the Columbia river, when the residents called smelts candlefish. The dried smelts burn as well as candles and give off an appetizing odor.—N. Y. Sun.

Another Republican Nominee For U. S. Senator.

On the twenty-eighth ballot the Republican caucus at Frankfort Friday night nominated W. J. Deboe, of Crittenden county, for United States Senator. The break to Deboe was started by the five anti-Hunter Republicans who prevented Hunter's election. The ballot resulted 38 for Deboe and 31 for all the other candidates, when a motion was made to make it unanimous. Representative Lieberth voted against the motion.

Only a formal ballot for Senator was taken yesterday, one vote being cast for each candidate. The Republicans have another "supreme effort" scheduled for to-morrow and claim Deboe's certain election. Hunter has congratulated Deboe.

Dr. Hunter said to a reporter at Washington that he would accept no office from the Administration for himself.

A DISPATCH says: "If Mr. Deboe is elected Senator this week, the Legislature may be able to adjourn in about two weeks. The revenue legislation is well advanced. The bill against mobs has already been practically killed."

Bob Franklin Secures A Majority of Delegates.

THE precinct mass conventions held Saturday to select delegates to the Georgetown convention to choose a Democratic candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney for this district—composed of Bourbon, Scott, Woodford and Franklin—resulted as follows:

John Smith—Bourbon 22, Woodford 6, Scott 5, Franklin 0. Total 33.

Bob Franklin—Bourbon 0, Woodford 9, Scott 17, Franklin 25. Total 51.

The district convention will be held at Georgetown to-morrow. Delegates to vote 84; necessary to a choice 43.

THE hundreds of friends of Commonwealth's Attorney John S. Smith, of this city, will regret that he was unsuccessful in the precinct conventions held Saturday to select delegates to the District Convention which meets to-morrow at Georgetown to nominate a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney. Mr. Smith has made a fine prosecuting attorney—able, fearless and faithful—and has made an honorable record. Mr. Robt. Franklin, who will receive the nomination Saturday is a native of Franklin county, and a close friend of Joe Blackburn.

THE Republicans are working hard to knock out a big part of the civil-service law, and it is possible that the rules will be so modified that all persons who were removed by the last Administration can be reinstated without competitive examination.

About Turnpikes.

THE Bourbon Fiscal Court Friday acquired by lease four additional turnpikes to add to the free roads. They were the Paris and Bethlehem pike, Paris & Jackstown, North Middletown & Mt. Sterling and the Hume & Bedford pikes. The court agrees to pay a rental of six per cent of the appraised value of the roads, with option to purchase same at the same valuation at the end of five years. The gate on the Bethlehem pike was removed Friday, and the other roads will be free on May 1st.

Toll is charged now only on two roads in Bourbon—the Maysville & Lexington and the Cynthiana & Townsend pikes.

The county tax levy for 1897 is: For free turnpikes, 25 cents on the $100; general purposes, 9½ cents; total levy 34½ cents, which is the same as it was last year.

Tollgate raiders posted a notice on Isaac Wilhoit's place, near McKee's cross roads, Woodford county, warning him not to raise any more tobacco. Wilhoit paid no attention to the threat, and Thursday his tobacco plants were all destroyed. Wilhoit will sell his farming interest and engage in some other business.

The new bridge crossing the Benson, on the Frankfort and Shelbyville turnpike road, recently placed there instead of the old bridge, which was destroyed by fire by turnpike raiders, was also burned by raiders Friday night.

Your Vitality?

The essence of life is force. Every breath you breathe, every heart beat, every motion of your hand, takes force. The measure of force we call vitality. If this is lacking, there is loss of flesh, lack of resistive power, a tendency to catch disease easily, especially a tendency to Consumption. For low vitality nothing is better than Scott's Emulsion. It supplies force by furnishing the nourishing, strengthening elements of food in an easily digested form; enriches the blood, and builds up the system. When ordinary food is of no avail, Scott's Emulsion will supply the body with all the vital elements of life.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVEINE cures nervous prostration. Not miraculously, but scientifically, by first removing the germs of disease, and then supplying healthy nerve food, increasing the appetite, helping digestion and strengthening the entire system. Desperate cases require prolonged treatment as shown by that of Mrs. M. B. Reed, of Delta, Iowa, who writes: "As the result of a lightning stroke, the physicians said I had a light stroke of paralysis, my limbs would all draw up. I would have throbbings in my chest that seemed unendurable. For three months I could not sleep and for three weeks did not close my eyes. I prayed for sleep, and felt that if relief did not come I would be dead or insane. I took Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerveine and the second night slept two hours and from that time on my health improved; slowly at first, but steadily and surely. I took in all 40 bottles, and I cannot express how grateful I am, for I am now perfectly well, and have taken no medicine for over four months." Dr. Miles' Nerveine is sold by druggists on guarantee that first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on heart and nerves free. Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

 He works his way as a sign painter and They're Afraid of Paris.

THE Harrodsburg Democrat says:
 "The boys met Monday at noon and effected a thorough organization of the Graded School Base Ball Club. Onward
 Baldwin was unanimously chosen Captain and Rodman Keenon Secretary.
 Challenges are now coming in and a series of games will be arranged for Tournament week. The boys realize that they will have to hustle to win the championship this year. They are not positive that they will win it but they will certainly be found trying. They have an idea that Lawrenceburg and Paris will give them the greatest trouble."

I AM SO GLAD.

I am so glad I can forget
The follies of the past,
The tears that once my eyelids wet,
The skies once overcast.
I am so glad that all the grief
Of all the far-off years
Has found in time a sweet relief,
Or vanished with my tears.
I'm glad the troubles I have had
No longer make me sorrowful;
I am so very glad.
I'm glad that I cannot forget
The pleasures of the past,
The tender eyes that once have met—
For days that did not last.
I am so glad that olden times
Fill me with new delight,
That roses of remembered Junes
Continually are bright.
I'm glad the pleasant things I've had
Grow every day more beautiful;
I am so very glad.
I am so glad that ill or good
Is from the Father's hand
Dropped down. I would not if I could Reverse what He has planned.
I'm glad that One who knows the way
Is marking it for me,
And that He does it every day,
Just as it ought to be.
Though future days be good or bad
The plans of God are wonderful.
And I am very glad.

A CHINESE FEUD.

THE cause of the feud which subsisted between Hong Fat and Charlie Go Lee will probably never be known. Hong Fat could have told of it, doubtless, and so, too, could Charlie, but neither the cook nor the laundryman ever gave his confidence concerning the feud, and, as you shall hear, neither is now available for testimony. Charlie Go Lee, being a washer of shirts, was rather looked down upon by Hong Fat, who cooked at the Cheerful Heart restaurant and revivified the lumbermen and sheep drovers with his stewed tripe. Hong Fat had a decided opinion that any Chinaman who was a Chinaman would be unwilling to remain at the shirt-washing industry any longer than it would take to negotiate with some restaurant, and as Charlie Go Lee had been in the country 11 years and still purified other people's clothes, Hong Fat reviled him. Perhaps this scorn of the cook had some considerable part in building up the enmity. It is only a surmise, however, and I do not guarantee it.

The wickedness of this story begins right here. It was Charlie Go Lee who, talking with other Chinamen from down the railroad, became inspired, and, learning where the United States marshal was to be found, visited him and spoke wisely, but in an unfriendly manner, of Hong Fat, the cook. Benefit of its liquid pigeoning, Charlie's English was sufficient to notify the official that a Chinaman without a certificate of residence was to be found in the Cheerful Heart restaurant at Geyserville at any time a government representative would care to call. And the very next week a man with a star and a document called at Geyserville, and when the down train pulled out a mournful and numerous Chinaman was on board, and dinner was late and poorly cooked at the restaurant of the Cheerful Heart that day. Firecrackers were, however, burned in the laundry of Charlie Go Lee, and festivity reigned there.

Hong Fat did not want to leave the country. His devotion to America and her likable qualities might well serve as an example for the instruction of young persons of lighter complexion than his own. He had been foolish in not registering long ago when the opportunity came, but, being a stubborn Chinaman and also believing that his remissness would never be discovered, he had held back. As he looked from the train and saw the decoration on Charlie Go Lee's laundry and moreover saw that industrious person, who, with great virtue and foresight, had obtained his certificate at as early a date as it could be issued to him, great anger came into Hong Fat's heart. For Charlie was leaping and dancing and laughing at him. The train whirled on its narrow-gauge way down past the restaurant, the back of which looked upon the railroad, and Hong Fat saw the meat man with his package pounding at the rear door, and he knew he was pounding for him, and that he would never open the door to that meat man again. He saw the three chickens which he had intended that very evening to put into a pie—saw them scratching about in the rubbish of the doorway, and he realized that many a day would pass before he would again decapitate a chicken to make a lumberman's holiday. Many a day? Why, it would never be again. He would be taken before white men, all of whom hated Chinese, and most of whom would readily be glibly about his evil character, and then he would be banished into a ship and be sent back in disgrace and poverty to China—the China from which he had set out so hopefully years before to make a fortune in the new world.

It is not given even so wise a man as a deputy United States marshal to know what is passing through a Chinaman's mind, and so the official was utterly unprepared when the heathen, with a sudden cry, dived through the window of the coach in a passion for the liberty beyond. It was a dark night, and, although the train was stopped at once, the hurried search revealed no sign of Hong Fat. The conductor was unwilling to delay longer than was necessary, and, telling the marshal he would better go on to the next town and wait for morning, he signaled to pull out. The narrow-gauge train had traveled many miles from the town of the Cheerful Heart restaurant and was now out of the wooded country and into the hot oven of the desert. The marshal accepted the advice.

Although he had mocked at Charlie Go Lee for being less advanced than himself, Hong Fat was really a resourceful and unimpeachable Chinaman, and there was nothing high-grade or knowing about him, except his miraculous ability in the matter of stewed tripe. So, leaping from the window to avoid being deported from the country, he was fond of, he knew not what to do next. He could only walk down the railroad track, and walk and walk, hoping to arrive somewhere where help would be given. He had broken a rib and had fearfully plowed his face in falling, but it was an unimportant rib and he did not mind his facial appearance. The road through the desert was long and gray and parched, when the daylight came after a smothering night, and afterward the two lines of rails flashed a glittering invitation to farther vistas of quivering heat, as though it were the way straight to the home of the damned. The night was beautiful on the far-away line of mountains as he hailed the sun at daybreak; at ten o'clock the sun was a furnace dropping a heat that was almost liquid upon him. His broken rib pained him and his face smarted, and he staggered on down the line, whither he knew not.

By and by the sound of an approaching train came to him and he looked ahead and saw the black blur at the ends of the pointed lines of steel. He dropped to his knees and crept off into the desert like a poisoned dog and waited in the sage for the train to pass. Then, with the insufferable sun still beating upon him, he resumed his weary journey. At night he came stealthily upon a village of three houses and he wanted to steal water there, but he was afraid, for a dog barked. He went around the handful of huts, hungry and burning within, but fearful of that dread horror, deportation.

It was thus that the aimless, rudderless Hong Fat traveled for a full week, hiding from trains, mourning for water, and with festering wounds. He began to see things on the desert alongside, and sometimes he dodged into the sage when no train was coming. He talked to himself, too, and altogether he was an evil-looking creature when Charlie Go Lee, turning an abrupt curve of the railroad, came upon him sitting on a fallen tree, for the traveler had never reached the timber country, out of which he had been so ruthlessly haled the week before. Charlie Go Lee looked at the returning wanderer in vast surprise. He called to him in Chinese, for he could hardly believe that this crazy creature was the Hong Fat of the Cheerful Heart, and asked him who he was. There was a wild and maniacal cry of rage heard in the timber camp up the mountain side, and Charlie now knew positively that Hong Fat had come back.

THE FIGHT WAS ON.

The thing which the laundryman said was that Hong Fat was a bad man, and that he must give himself up to be held by him, Charlie Go Lee, for the white man who would give a reward in money, and that which Hong Fat said was wild and animal like and unintelligible, and the two enemies grapsed at each other, and the fight was on.

Charlie saw that his foe was thin and pale and weak to look upon, but he did not see that he was a maniac, with the strength of a maniac, even counting the broken rib as a hindrance. The long, snaky, wasted arms of the fugitive of the desert closed around the washerman's waist, and even as Charlie hooked his own arm about the neck of the runaway to choke him and subjugate him, the train whistle was heard around the curve. The laundryman knew its import, and tried to tug himself and his prisoner off the line of track, but Hong Fat clenched the harder and dragged his foe with him to the space between the rails, where they wallowed and shrieked, Charlie in fear and the desert man in crazed rage.

Thus their quarrel ended.
What originally started the feud no man knows, as I told you in the beginning.—Chicago Record.

Old Theater Tickets.

During the last few years a large number of small metal plates have been found at diggings in Athens and Piræus, and they were commonly considered to be small symbols. The Greek archaeologist, Svoronos, has now demonstrated beyond doubt that the metal plates were used as tickets of admission to the Theater of Dionysos about the time of Lycurgus. The images on these theater tickets, certainly the oldest of their kind in existence, show either the head of Pallas Athene, turned to the left, or the head of a lion, and the letters of the alphabet in single, double or triple arrangement. It appears, therefore, that the laws introduced by Lycurgus, which had such a great influence upon Athenians in all walks of life, extended also to the admission to theaters, which was also probably regulated by him.—Philadelphia Record

MOST INTERESTING BURYING.

Incident Was Told in a South Carolina Churchyard.

"Been through the buryin' ground? I know about most all the fine monuments," volunteers the boss after the church has been inspected. He is dressed in a full suit of blue jeans. He is healthy looking, long-legged and great and a broad-brimmed felt hat and drooping black mustache seem in keeping with his swinging gait and odd, drawling accents. He fairly beams upon finding that his services as guide are acceptable.

"This is a mighty tasty stone," he comments, laying his brown hand on a marble shaft. "They give out that it cost $80. The tolerable plain for that, but then the Griggses mostly has things plain. They say Miss Griggs wanted a harp on it, and it wouldn't have cost no more either, but old man Griggs he just shut up like a steel trap at the notion of a harp. He 'lowed they could git this monument (with a stress on the 'ment') or none at all. 'Twas Miss Griggs' sister what died. She took a heavy cold 'long about March.

"I take it that that there grave is the most interestin' buryin' 'mongst the whole lot," he goes on, leading the way to a spot between two tall pines, where the ground is thickly covered with brown pine needles. "That was a duel. The fight come off toward sundown, up in the mountains, and this fellow was hauled here in a wagon and buried quick, after 12 o'clock at night. You see, it was against the law then, in them way-back days, to fight, and the one what did the killin', he and the seconds was anxious to git across into Georgia before the business leaked out. I disremember the names now, but they were big people; one was a governor from up here by Greenville somewheres. The dead man was brought along on a common wagon, and there wasn't time for no funeral nor nothin'. Some pine tops, green, fresh-broke pine tops, was throwed on top of the wagon body, to make things look better. After the grave was filled up, in their hurry like, out not likin' to leave it with no mark to know it by, they took two of the pine tops and stuck 'em up, one to the head and one to the foot. These two trees is them same pine tops. Seems like the Lord Almighty let 'em grow purpose to keep that sin cen mind."

"What was the cause of the quarrel?" he is asked.
"It ain't exactly knowned for sure. Some holds out it was about a boundary line twist two plantations, and I've heard it said it was a old election squabble. Anyway, the dead man was fixin' to marry soon, and his sweet-heart never did git over it to enjoy herself no more."—N. Y. Post.

OUR FRIENDS' FAULTS.

We Should Try to Keep Them in the Background.

It is related of Alexander the Great that upon a certain occasion, when he requested a famous artist to paint his portrait, he said: "I have never had a satisfactory picture. If you can hide that scar," lifting his finger towards his face, "and give me a good picture, you will not only increase your renown, but I promise you a fortune beside." The sequel is that the artist so thoroughly succeeded in bringing out prominently the leading characteristics of Alexander, at the same time hiding the scar, which if seen would mar the pleasure of looking at the portrait and detract from the full appreciation of his most noble qualities, that the conqueror was not only delighted and satisfied, but he also carried out to the letter his promises of fortune and fame.

In this little anecdote is contained a good precept for the guidance of friends. It is characteristic of some people to magnify "scars." It is true that about us there are not many people who can be called perfect, yet if others tried as assiduously to extol their virtues and good qualities as sometimes they seem to strive to remind them and others of their faults and follies, what a wonderful change the world would see! There would be little motive for family or social gossip, for our "scars" would either fade or be altogether concealed. Indeed, some of our acquaintances would hardly be recognized; but, on the other hand, it would be a pleasure to know that there are among us some, who, like Alexander's good portrait painter, find pleasure in thus hiding the scars and bringing out the best that may be discovered in friends and acquaintances. This hiding of the faults and weaknesses of our friends is a rare and beautiful trait of character. It is a friendly virtue which we should study to cultivate; for in speaking of one's friends it is always an after-satisfaction to remember that we have dealt kindly in their behalf.—Boston Budget.

To Preserve Flowers' Colors.

The natural colors of flowers may be preserved with almost their original brilliancy after being dried very thoroughly in sand. The Gardeners' Monthly, which suggests this simple process for manufacturing artificial flowers, states that the most delicate flowers can be made in this way to look for several years as though they had been freshly gathered. The flowers should be placed in a pan or other dish and covered with perfectly clean, dry sand. This should be sifted over the flower so as not to break or bruise the petals. Every chink and cranny should be filled without disturbing the natural position of the leaves. When the pan is full and every crevice has been filled solidly the flowers are allowed to dry for several days. It is often found effective to warm the sand and keep the buried flowers in a warm oven. The sand should then be removed, great care being taken not to break or tear the leaves, which will be very brittle.—N. Y. World.

DIAMONDS OF GOLCONDA.

Marco Polo's Account of Them Reads Like One of Sinbad's Tales.

It is in this kingdom that diamonds are got; and I will tell you how. There are certain lofty mountains in those parts; and when the winter rains fall, which are very heavy, the waters come roaring down the mountains in great torrents. When the rains are over, and the waters from the mountains have ceased to flow, they search the beds of the torrents and find plenty of diamonds. In summer also there are plenty to be found in the mountains, but the heat of the sun is so great that it is scarcely possible to go thither, nor is there then a drop of water to be found. Moreover, in those mountains great serpents are rife to a marvelous degree, besides other vermin; and this owing to the great heat. The serpents are also the most venomous in existence, so that anyone going there runs fearful peril; for many have been destroyed by these evil reptiles.

Now among these mountains there are certain great and deep valleys, to the bottom of which there is no access. Wherefore the men who go in search of the diamonds take with them pieces of flesh, as lean as they can get, and these they cast into the bottom of the valley. Now there are numbers of white eagles that haunt these mountains and feed upon the serpents. When the eagles see the meat thrown down, they pounce upon it, and carry it up some rocky hill-top, where they begin to rend it. But there are men on the watch, and as soon as they see that the eagles have settled, they raise a loud shouting to drive them away. And when the eagles are thus frightened away the men recover the pieces of meat, and find them full of diamonds which have stuck to the meat down in the bottom. For the abundance of diamonds down there in the depths of the valley is astonishing, but nobody can get down; and if one could, it would be only to be at once devoured by the serpents which are so rife there.

There is another way of getting the diamonds. The people go to the nests of those white eagles, of which there are many, and find plenty of diamonds which the birds have carried off with the meat that was cast into the valleys. And when the eagles themselves are taken diamonds are found in their stomachs.

So now I have told you three different ways in which these stones are found. No other country but this kingdom of Muttif produces them, but there they are found both abundantly and of large size. Those that are brought to our part of the world are only the refuse, as it were, of the finer and larger stones. For the flower of the diamonds and other large gems, as well as the largest pearls, are all carried to the great khan and other kings and princes of these regions; in truth, they possess all the great treasures of the world.—Noah Brooks, in St. Nicholas.

MOHAMMED'S COAT.

Sacred Relic to Which the Sultan Annually Pays His Devotion.

No more striking illustration of the alarming condition of affairs that prevail just now at Constantinople could be afforded them the fact that the sultan should have considered it necessary to proceed by water, instead of by land, from his residence at the Yildiz Kiosk to the old seraglio for the purpose of paying his annual devotion to the holy coat of Mohammed, which is preserved in a great box in the innermost sanctuary of the imperial treasury. The extent to which this garment is venerated by all believers may be estimated by the fact that the principal and most highly cherished title of the sultan is that of "guardian of the holy mantle." This robe, which it is needless to say is green, was brought to Constantinople by Sultan Selim along with the keys of the holy cities of Medina and Mecca, from Cairo, where they had been preserved until that time in the keeping of the caliphs.

This worship of the mantle by the sultan is the most solemn and important religious function which the Turkish ruler is called upon to perform throughout the year, and as a general rule, his majesty's progress from the Yildiz Kiosk to the Sublime Porte is marked by a magnificent display of troops four or five ranks deep, who line the entire route on either side.

This year, for the first time since his accession to the throne more than 20 years ago, the sultan, through dread of assassination, has abandoned the customary procession by land, and has gone by water instead, furtively and almost by stealth, the public being left till the last moment to believe by the military display that the sultan was about to proceed to the old seraglio in the usual manner.—Chicago Record.

Discovery of Platinum.

Platinum was first discovered early in the sixteenth century in a Spanish mine of South America, from which source it receives its name, "platina del Pinto"—little silver from the River Pinto. It is the rarest and most peculiar of metals. In contradistinction to aluminum, the lightest, it is the heaviest of metals. It is twice as heavy as silver and nearly three times heavier than cast iron. Platinum is almost as soft as copper and as ductile as gold. It can be rolled into sheets so thin that 1,000 of them piled on top of each other would not exceed an inch in height. The average imports of platinum to this country are valued at nearly $2,000,000 a year.—N. Y. Herald.

THE PAGE COILED SPRING WOVEN WIRE FENCE.

MILLER & COLLINS, Agents,
PARIS, KENTUCKY.

This is a smooth fence that will turn any kind of stock. It is made from the best hard steel drawn specially for the purpose.

HOW IT IS MADE.
The large steel wires forming the horizontal bars are first coiled around a 2 1/2 inch rod, thus practically becoming COILED SPRINGS their entire length. These are securely tied together by 10 cross bars to the rod. The cross bars are best quality of annealed wire (galvanized), wrapped three times around each horizontal bar.

ITS ADVANTAGES.
Being a SELF REGULATOR it is ALWAYS ready for business, slacks up for 30 below as cheerfully as it takes a new grip for 90 in the shade, gently, but firmly persuades a runaway team to reconsider its action. An unruly bull is safe as a canary in its cage; it saith unto the festive hog, "thus far shalt thou go." The fierce wild and drifting snow pass by and it heeds them not. There is no terror in the locomotive spook. The trespasser is not led into temptation, and the rail stealer's "occupation is gone." The hired man and the lagging tramp, alike scorn it proffered shade. Like the model housewife, when well supported, it is always neat and tidy.

THREE POSTS TO THE 100 FEET.
Economy is not our sole object in placing posts for farm fence at the unusual distance of 20 to 30 feet apart. Farmers say, "the closer the posts the better the fence." That may apply to common fences, but depending largely on its elasticity we PREFER the long panel. For cemeteries, lawns, yards, etc., they should of course be nearer, 12 to 20 feet is not objectionable.

We have completed (and are now building) a lot of this fence for Bourbon farmers and you can examine into its merits for yourself.

Estimates cheerfully furnished. You may put up the posts and we will build the fence, or we will contract to do the whole job. If you are needing any fence, see us. We will save you money and still build you the best fence made. Respectfully,
MILLER & COLLINS,

The Page Wire Fence in Bourbon.

MILLERSBURG, Ky., May 4, '96,
MESSRS. MILLER & COLLINS, Agents,
Paris, Kentucky.

Gentlemen:—I have had the Page Woven Wire Fence on my farm for about eighteen months and am well pleased with it. It has proved to be all that is claimed for it. It turns all kinds of stock and is as tight as it was the day it was put up and has stood some severe tests. A horse of one of my neighbors fell across the fence a few months ago and was not taken off for several hours but when taken off the fence went back to its place all right with the exception of a few staples. During the storm of April 24th a good-sized tree was blown across the fence and bent it down to the ground. As soon as the tree was cast off the fence went up all right and was as good as ever with the exception of one broken wire and a few staples out of place.

I am so well pleased with the fence that I am going to put up more of it right away. Respectfully, (5my-1f) WM. REICRAFT.

HOMEMADE BROODER.

Constructed on Simple and at the Same Time Correct Principles.

The incubator has come to stay in the poultry world, and many farmers are also availing themselves of its advantages. Where incubators are used, one must have brooders, and unless these can be made at home, the expense of a hatching "plant" is very materially increased. Fortunately, brooders can be constructed that will do very good work, though of course they must be watched a little more closely than would be necessary with the self-regulating brooders that one can buy.

A plan is shown herewith that gives a brooder constructed on simple and at the same time correct principles. The diagram, Fig. 1, is very nearly self-explanatory. A box three feet square, or thereabouts, has in the bottom a brooder lamp or stove. Above this is a sheet of iron as large as the inside of the box, and supported at the four sides, and by an iron prop near the lamp, if it is inclined to sag. Make the edges air-tight with cement, so that no fumes from the lamp can get up above the sheet iron. Have a sheet iron drum made as indicated in Fig. 3, and set this into the brooder floor, filling in the rest of the floor about the drum with cement, that there may be no danger from fire. The drum need not be over six inches in height. It has a half dozen openings under the top, as shown in the sketch. When the lamp is lighted, air enters at one side above the sheet iron, is heated and rises in the drum, passes out through the openings into the chick chamber and is diffused about it. Three or four ventilating holes are in the wall near the floor, for the exit of cold air. This gives a constant movement of warm air into the brooder. These openings can be partly closed when desired. An opening in the side near the bottom of the lamp chamber, and one near the top on the opposite sides, give fresh air for the lamp and an exit for its fumes. The lamp is inserted through a small door in the side of the box. One whole side of the brooder chamber is a drop door, for the easy sweeping out of the floor. The top (in drum) can have a pane of glass in it, so one may see the chicks, and the thermometer hanging against one side. Glass on two sides gives light. The top must fit very tightly. If this brooder is to be used out of doors, a roof must be added, as indicated by dotted lines. The corners of the brooders are cut off, as seen in Fig. 2, so that the chicks may not crowd into them and the weak be trampled upon and smothered by the stronger, should the chamber ever become cold. This is an important matter and should not be overlooked.—Orange Jud. Farmer.

CORNER AND DRUM.

AMONG THE POULTRY.

Save all the feathers. Wheat is one of the best egg producing foods.

Sunflower seed promote laying and good health.

Keep the tail and wing feathers separate from the others.

Chaff is a good material for the nests of the early sitting hens.

The secret of raising goslings is to keep them dry and warm.

Young fowls need bone meal to supply strength and vigor to the growing frame.

It will require an average of one pound of grain per week for ten weeks to feed a chick.

If chicks are allowed a free run on light warm days it will add considerably to their vigor.

The use of cross-bred cocks often prevents uniformity in the color and characteristics of the chicks.

Keep the yard and poultry-house floors sprinkled with air-slaked lime and there will be fewer cases of roup.—St. Louis Republic.

Horses Holding Their Own.

An observing gentleman from the west says he believes the market for horses is rapidly improving. He says people got the idea that electricity and the bicycle were going to render the demand for horses less than they have. In some parts of the west horses are now becoming scarce because they have been disposed of at an astonishing rate. Electricity has about run its length as a displacer of horses and the bicycle is covering its own field pretty thoroughly. What the horseless wagon will do in the future is a problem, but until highways are materially improved, it cannot come into general use.

Feeding the Laying Hens.

It is a mistake to keep the laying hens with those which do not produce eggs, for the reason that the layers require more food than the others, and do not receive it. Usually when hens do not lay they are too fat, and should be fed on foods containing but little grain, and also fed sparingly; consequently, when all the hens are together, the non-producing hens may become fatter while the layers do not receive enough. It does not pay to feed hens that do not give a return for the food consumed.—Farm and Fireside.

BUSINESS METHODS.

Why Farmers Should Look After Their Insurance Policies.

Farmers sometimes forfeit their insurance by neglect. While the mutual companies do not, as we understand it, hold farmers to the strict letter of the law, as do the stock companies, but go more on the equities of the case in their settlements than on strictly legal points, nevertheless it is wise to have everything straight at the start and keep it straight. For example, many farmers during the year make additions to their buildings. The company should be informed of this fact and additional insurance, whether against fire, lightning or tornado, should be taken out to cover the increased value. Many farmers sell or trade properties during the year and this violates their policy unless an assignment is made, returned to the company, and a new policy issued. Where farmers do not set out their property frequently deed portions of their property to their wives or members of their families, thus making a change of title and in each case the policy should state the facts.

Another matter. In making out a policy always see that the property that you wish to protect is specifically mentioned in the policy and that it is so mentioned that there can be no dispute about it. For example, we heard of a case lately that is likely to lead to litigation in a stock company. The farmer so insured carried so much insurance on grain. A fire occurred and in addition to the grains a lot of clover seed was burned. The question came up at once, is clover seed a grain? It will be very difficult to prove that it is. Therefore the policy should read grain and clover seed, or any other kind of seed.

Another matter. Always keep your policy where you will know where to get it should it be needed for any purpose and if possible keep it in a fire-proof safe. Bankers usually take care of papers of this kind and it would be a good thing to leave your policies together with your banker, or in some other place where they are as safe as possible from fire.—Wallace's Farmer.

RENDERING LARD.

Simple and Handy Device Which Makes the Task Easy.

The illustration portrays a simple and handy device for heating water and rendering lard in kettles. I made the pieces, e. e. out of the iron gangs of an old cultivator; any kind of light iron will do for balance. Set two parts, a, a, (common fence posts) in the ground. Cut a mortise in top for crosspiece b, and pin them so the weight of the kettle will not pull them together. Get two eyes, f, f, for bottom (gate eyes will answer). To make them stronger, the two top eyes, f, f, should be fitted with nuts. Make bottom of beams, e. e., so they will go in bottom eyes and make the other end with a small crook for kettle to hang in. Take two pieces of iron, d, d, and rivet them on each side of beams, e. e.; rivet a hook in the other end to hook in top eyes. Bolt the piece of iron, e. e. to crosspiece b, so they will drop down between pieces d, d, and lock beams so that they cannot swing from over the fire. To remove the kettle from the fire, remove lock e and the beam can be swung either way. I find it a very convenient way for rendering lard. If lard is foaming or getting too hot, it can easily be swung from over the fire until danger is over and when done, the kettle need not be removed from the beams until the lard is taken out.—H. M. Hodson, in Farm and Home.

CONVENIENT FRAME FOR LARD MAKING.

OILING THE HARNESS.

If Undertaken at All, This Work Should Be Done Well.

Harness will last much longer and look much better if kept well oiled, and will not get so stiff after being exposed to a day's rain. During the spring it is difficult to keep harness from getting wet, and it will pay well before the season's work begins to see that it is thoroughly oiled. In doing the work, the harness should be taken apart and washed clean, using warm water and castile soap, and then wiped dry, when the oil should be applied. If so clean that washing is not needed, it will be better to wipe off with a wet rag as the oiling can be done better. It is best to take harness all apart, in order to get at all of the parts and oil thoroughly. Good harness oil can be purchased all ready for use, or neatfoot oil, with a little lamp black, will be found good. If the harness has not been oiled for some time and is hard and dry, it will be best to go over them twice, finishing all up, and then commencing with the first piece and going over again. After every part has been thoroughly oiled, it should all be hung up over a frame of some kind and allowed to dry. It should not be hung in the sun or where the wind strikes, as it will dry too rapidly. The oil should have plenty of time to soak in. Like most other work on the farm, if undertaken it will pay to do well.—Journal of Agriculture.

Separate the Flocks.

The first thing to do with flocks that are kept on farms rather than on ranches is to separate the flock into a number of small ones, each composed of one kind, and having a regard to sex, age and general condition. The weak ones should not be placed with the strong. The weather or stock flock should be in one flock, the breeding ewes in another, and the lambs in another, if the best results are to be secured.

ABSENT-MINDED.

The Professor Thought Her Face Was Familiar.

Prof. Charles Fahnestock is a near-sighted, absent-minded, but genial young man, with all the qualities that lead to success except that he has a very poor memory. This leads him into trouble, especially when he meets ladies to whom he has paid marked attention.

Recuperating for the past few weeks at the winter city by the sea where so many Philadelphians and Chicagoans go to recover from the effects of arduous social seasons of ante-nuptial dinners, he became smitten with the charms of a young lady. They became inseparable, and friends of each were hourly expecting to hear of an engagement. At last one evening they were sitting in a dark corner of the glass-covered veranda, and this bit of conversation was wafted from behind the palms:

"I swear," declared Charlie, passionately, "that I love you!"

"But, Mr. Fahnestock," came the young lady's voice, coldly and distinctly, "you have so poor a memory. You might forget me."

"Never!" he protested. "I could forget that I was living sooner than I could forget you! Would years of deathless devotion—"

"Do you remember ever having met me before?" interrupted the lady, more coldly still.

"Never, never! because I never did! If you think so you are mistaken. At least—at least," he stammered, as a memory of his failing came over him. "I never knew you. Where did we meet?"

"We met in the west two years ago. We were married, and a year later, divorced. Good night!" and she swept from the piazza.

"Well, I'll swear!" said the professor, looking after her dubiously. "I thought her face looked familiar!" That night he paid his bill and departed, and now the affairs of the college are receiving his undivided attention.—N. Y. Journal.

HARMONY IN MARRIED LIFE.

The Right Kind of a Wife Makes the Right Kind of a Husband.

"If you wish to be a good companion to your husband study to make each 'Good morning' that you say to him an incentive to a better life," is Ruth Ashmore's advice to young women, whom she addresses upon "The Profession of Marriage." "Learn to make each 'Good night' a benediction of love for the day's work, the day's loving and the day's sympathy. Look for his good qualities. He is like you in having faults; with very little trouble you can find these faults, and by talking about them and reminding him of them you can make your married life unendurable. You can bring about heartburning, you can cause strife, and before you know it hatred may take the place of love. Look for his virtues, and seeking always for goodness, you will grow better every day just as certainly as you would grow bad if you looked only for that which was wicked. Remember there is much that will have to be forgiven in you, and whenever you feel inclined to remind Tom of a weakness read the book in which is set down your foibles and your follies. A woman who, even after her marriage, carefully studies her profession, can make her husband what she wishes him to be. Everything that is good is contagious, and the right kind of a wife makes the right kind of a husband.

"Respect the rights of your husband; he is a man, not a child, and how can the world honor him when you, who are his closest companion, do not? Do not, even in jest, deride or underrate him. People are slow about deciding when one is jesting or when one is in earnest. And what you meant to be funny may cause some stupid person to say: 'How horrid Tom must be! Why, his wife says dreadful things about him!'"—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Home Influence.

"Charity begins at home," says the old adage, and we might add, "so does every other good thing." Possibly we might go still farther and say much of the mischief of evil of life begins there, too. Certain it is that whenever good men set themselves to do a good work in this crooked world their thoughts turn always to their homes, as if there they must look for the very heart of the nation. Make the home what it should be and the land will take care of itself. Save the children of to-day and we have made sure of a blessed to-morrow. Any uplifting influence, then, that purifies and strengthens the home, any cheerful influence that gladdens it, should meet with cordial welcome from the hearts of those who desire that the "ax be laid at the very root of the tree." Nay, more than cordial welcome should be given; every movement designed to bless the home should have the earnest aid of parents, and even of the little ones themselves.—Washington Home Magazine.

Cream Sandwiches.

Make nice short pastry and roll out rather thin, and then cut three inches long and 1 1/2 wide, and bake in a sharp oven. When done a light brown brush over with the yolk of an egg, cut lengthwise, and spread raspberry jam to form a sandwich, and put whipped cream, flavored with vanilla, and a teaspoonful of castor sugar and white of an egg beaten to a froth on top of cream.—Boston Budget.

A Good Prospect.

"Do you see anything coming our way?" asked the morning star of a companion.

"Not yet," was the reply; "but I see a servant below there who is about to light her kitchen fire with kerosene."—Yonkers Statesman.

To Rid the House of Black Ants.

You may exterminate black ants by first keeping out of their reach all sweets. Stand your cake and sugar boxes in a pan of water, then around the shelves put either lavender, ground cloves, or, better, camphor.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Sing Lee's Asylum.

Sing Lee was an enterprising young Chinaman who conducted a laundry in a small mining camp in Colorado some years ago. His never-failing good humor made him a universal favorite, and on more than one occasion the boys found that he had a ready tongue in his head. A presidential election occurred about this time, and one of the boys—an Irishman—remarked to Sing: "Well, Sing, you'll have to go in' to China now. The Irish be goin' to run things here, and they won't have any hither Chinese around." Quick as a flash Sing retorted: "All right, me go Ireland. I'll sh no hun things there."

Users and Selling Agents of Imperial Cash Registers Brought Into Court.

Toledo, O., April 27.—Suit has been filed in the United States Circuit Court here, against Hemmert Brothers, saloon-keepers at Celina, Ohio, by The National Cash Register Company, of Dayton, Ohio, asking for an injunction and damages. Messrs. Hemmert Brothers use an Imperial Cash Register, sometimes known as the Osborn, which is manufactured by the Osborn Cash Register Company, of Detroit, Michigan, and which The National Cash Register Company claims infringes cash register patents owned by them.

John M. Price, Nicholas Wagner, and Perdan & Company, well-known merchants of this city, John Brown, a provision dealer at 202 Grand street, Brooklyn, New York, John Fritz, at 44 Main street, Ann Arbor, Michigan, and more than twenty other individuals and firms, who are either using or selling Imperial Cash Registers, have also been sued.

A NATURAL manner was her aim. Simple and simple, and all that. She failed, but she was not to blame. For she resided in a flat!

SAFE CURE

There is only one way by which any disease can be cured, and that is by removing the cause, whatever it may be. The great medical authorities of the day declare that nearly every disease is caused by deranged kidneys or liver. To restore these, therefore, is the only way by which health can be secured. Here is where has achieved its great reputation. It and by placing them in a healthy condition, drives disease and pain from the system.

"When I Saw"—your advertisement. I thought that it was probably like the announcements of many other makers of harvesting machinery—big blow and little show; but I'm ready to surrender; go ahead, gentlemen, you're all right! I bought one of your binders last season and it is equal to any claim you ever made for it. This is the condensed essence of what Mr. Thomas Carney, of Washington Court House, Ohio, has to say about the McCormick Right Hand Open Elevator. The claims made for McCormick Machines are McCORMICK. Machines are so constructed that strong claims for them are justified. The machine you want will cost you more than the other kind, for the simple reason that it is worth more; that's all—there's no other reason—and in the end you'll be glad you paid the difference, because there's nothing cheaper than the best. CALIBAN 394, by Mambrino Pilot 29; dam, Cassia, by Cassius M. Clay, Jr., 22, etc. STRATHMORE 408, by Hambletonian 10; dam, Lady Waltemire (dam of Marshal Ney 2034) by North American; 2 dam by Hambletonian 2.

C. F. Clay is a horse of great finish and style, in fact as much so as any horse we know of. Is a beautiful mahogany bay, with black points, and stands 15.3 hands high. His pedigree is full of the richest producing blood which has year after year added new and brilliant performers to the turf, for instance: Nannie Etticoat, out of his dam, has given in 1896 Red Silk 2:10 and Brown Silk 2:19; the latter the dam of China Silk, two-year-old record 2:16; beyond question the best two-year-old filly of 1896. As a two, three and five-year old, C. F. Clay was campaigned and landed many good races, securing his record of 2:18. His first crop of foals came in his six-year-old form and for several years afterward he was the leading sire, when age of foals was considered. His get all possess his grand individuality and are especially speedy; and as to race-horse qualities the performances of Coleridge 2:05; Choral 2:03; Connor 2:11; Arthur W. 2:11; and others are too recent and of too much merit to need any comment. But few better sires than C. F. Clay are now in the stud. His colts are not only trotters but are show horses as well, having probably been awarded as many premiums at the leading fairs as the get of any horse in Kentucky. C. F. Clay will make the season of 1897 at Emerald Park Stock Farm, 51 miles north of Paris, at $25 To Insure A Living Colt.
